

Sedibeng TVET College recognize that most (if not all) students need academic support and development to successfully complete their studies. The academic support at the College is systematically planned and integrated into the broader academic interventions.

We use a tool to identify the academic support needs of individual students because is crucial for providing timely intervention. The responsibility for planning and implementing academic support programs is not solely resting on student support unit, but it involves collaboration with academic unit and lecturer involvement.

Lecturers play a significant role in monitoring student performance and learning needs, making adjustments to their teaching to enhance student learning. Building strong relationships between lecturers and students is essential for effective teaching and student support.

Below are available academic support programmes at the College;

1. Classroom academic support
2. Peer tutoring
3. Extra classes
4. Catch-up classes
5. Academic development
